Hospitals' Death threats and abuse forcing campaigner out of town draft plan set to be published

A DRAFT plan to help shape the future of hospital services in Cannock and Stafford will be published for the first time on June 19.

The administrators of Mid Staffordshire NHS Founda-

Staffordshire NHS Founda-tion Trust, Dr Hugo Mascie-Taylor and Alan Bloom, will then launch a public consul-tation six days later. Eight public consultation meetings have been planned for people in Cannock, Stafford and Rugeley to have their say on the proposed £70million downgrade of services.

The period of public consultation will last 30 working days, closing at midnight on August 5.

Level

The draft plan will be published on the TSA website on June 19, with hard copies available from June 25.

Mr Bloom said: "We have been delighted by the level of public programment in the Julie Bailey, who fought to uncover the shocking neglect and appalling standards of care at Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust, says she 'cannot stay here any longer' and will leave before the end of the summer.

Miss Bailey formed the campaign group Cure the NHS and pushed for a public inquiry into death rates at Stafford Hospital after her 86-year-old mother Bella died on ward 11. She said sections of the commu-nity had turned against her with numerous threatening letters, tele-phone calls and vandalism to her mother's grave. mother's grave.

Police

One caller told her they hoped 'she dies on the way to hospital' and she received a card 'thanking' her for her "hard work in closing Stafford Hospital". The card, which has been passed to police, reportedly read: "Thank you for closing Stafford hospital, Ha, Ha, Ha, you better now spend more time watching your mother's grave."

Miss Bailey, who runs Breaks Cafe in Stafford, said: "People have been coming into the eafe shouting that nothing happened at Mid Stafford-shire, that I am lying and that there were no unnecessary deaths."

She added: "My cafe is in ruins. They are boycotting me. I will be gone by the end of the summer. I can't stay here any longer."

Miss Bailey has been subject to abuse since exposing the scandal.

West Midlands Ambulance Service sacked paramedic Murph Guest after comments were made on Facebook expressing the hope that Miss Bailey would suffer "a lifethreatening illness".

The service said Guest who was

The service said Guest, who was suspended from his duties following the allegations, had been referred to the Health and Care Professions Council on charges of serious profes-sional misconduct. He could be struck off from the profession.

The abuse is not new – Wiley was famously branded 'unfit' by the then Manchester United boss Sir Alex Ferguson in 2009 following a game against Sunderland. Nor is it something which stop in Cannock.

Aah, Bristow as darts ace takes on truckers

The truckers turned up at the New Hollies Truck Stop on the A5 to find the 'Crafty Cockney' waiting for a game of darts.
Bristow, aged 56, from Leek, said: 'I used to call in this place a long time ago with my driver – you wouldn't recognise it now. The truckers were queuing up for a game and I was dying for a big breakfast.

"One of the lads I played reminded me that his uncle Mike Tilsley – known as the Black Prince – beat me in a boozer about 30 years ago. It's been a real trip down Memory Lane with good value food and beer to go with the darts."

Among those to give Eric a run for their money was wagon driver Jason Foxall, 40, of Darlaston, who said: "I've never played darts with a world champion before – this place is a lot better than it used to be."

Depot

Depot

Retired policeman and trucker Bob Hill, 69, of Kingswinford, beat Eric with nine darts and said: "I used to play football until I was 51, but darts clearly should have been my game."
And Northern Irish trucker Barry McGurgan, 36, of Amagh, said: "This place is my local—I am always in here as it's right by the depot where I load. It's unbelievable having a game of darts with Eric Bristow."
Bookie Fred Done, co-owner of the Betfred empire, took a gamble on buying the truck stop and pulled in his sporting pal Eric Bristow for a game of arrows with the truckers to launch it. In the first few months turnover has gone from £10,000 per month to £100,000 with up to 137 lorries parking up there overnight.
Fred, who took on the Bristow challenge, but failed to hit the bullseye, said: "I get the same buzz out of this place as when I opened my first bookmaker's shop in Odsall and I've got 1,365 of those now. I'd hope to open up around 50 nationwide in the next five years."

problem?

PLEASE allow me to reply to the torrent of abuse aimed at me by Anita Bentley (letters 16 May) for suggesting an alternative to leaving bags of dog mess on the Chase, a practice I deplore.

My suggestion of flicking it into the undergrowth with a stick ensures that no mess is left on the footpath where people (apart from Ms Bentley) tend to walk and it utilises the organic waste disposal system that nature provides. My method may not be ideal in everyone's eyes but it is better than leaving the stuff on footpaths, in or out of bags and nobody wants to walk for long distances carrying it.

As a responsible dog owner I am willing to listen to sensible and constructive council chairman's hospitality fund.

This seemed very odd because Mr Snape proposed exactly the same amount in the Tory alternative budget for hospitality as the council currently allows. In 2008/9, when Cannock Chase Council was run by the Tory/Lib Dem coalition (the one that wasted £100,000 in demolishing the stadium) more than £22,000 was spent on hospitality. This figure has been reduced under Labour to less than £11,000.
The purpose of the document that Mr Snape appears to be so upset about was to continue reducing spending in this area. Tory-run Lichfield spends £24,580 on hospitality while Tory South Staffs spends £16,300.

Thief in for a roasting

Margaret Wootton who had six potato plants stolen

A PENSIONER has vowed that a thief who swiped her prized potatoes is in for a roasting if she catches them. Margaret Wootton, who had been looking forward to some hearty dinners from her crop, said: "I hope they choke him."

Police are investigating the theft in Norton Canes, which was discovered by the 73-year-old last week.

She had planted the bulbs just after Easter at the bungalow she shares with husband Melvyn in Brownhills Road. They were not ready to dig up for another eight weeks and would only have been pea-sized.

Unveiling of tribute to town's mining heritage

A MINING memorial is to be finally unveiled in Burntwood next weekend. The bronze statue of a miner and pit pony will be unveiled on June 8 at 2pm at Sankeys Corner. Sankeys Corner Arts Mining Project (Scamp) is behind the project. Spokesman Ron Bradbury said: "After many years of fundraising this fine monument to the memory of the town's heritage, will be shown to the public for the first time."

Pearson and Councillor Derek Davis at the memorial THE group behind a mining memorial in Hednesford has received nearly 300 requests for named bricks since plans for a third phase were posted.

The second phase of the memorial was unveiled a year ago and dedicated at a service led by the Bishop of Manchester. It saw miners' names inscribed on bricks around the original Davy Lamp structure.

In an additional phase, more bricks will be laid around the grass area surrounding the clock in front of Anglesey Lodge. Work should start in October and any requests for inscribed bricks should be made before August 31. Applicants can include names of underground and above ground workers still living. The pair first began working together in 2006 after they and two other friends visited the Western Front battlefields and cemeteries in France. They began talking about the Messines Model, which Mr Dent had been told about when he was 15, and when the pair had gathered enough information as to its location, they unearthed the structure.

"Rich and I found where it would be from the record office," said Mr Dent, of Harrison Road, Cannock.

"We approached the council about the model and they said they knew it had been built but lost over the years. They thought nothing existed of it.

Fair pays tribute to Land Army girls

Claire, right, and Maisie Cole from Hednesford specialise in vintage clothing and were exhibiting at the show

Tiegan Atkinson, left, aged eight, and Courtney Lamb, nine, from the 2nd Boney Hay Brownies

THE sights and sounds of wartime Britain were brought to life at the Staffordshire County Showground.

More than 600 vintage-lovers packed into the Stafford venue to join in with the celebrations at the Women's Land Army Fair.

The event, themed around the Second World War, was held to raise money towards a £100,000 appeal for a memorial to the wartime Land Army girls at the National Memorial Arboretum at Alrewas. More than £1,000 was raised at the fair, where more than 30 stalls sold vintage clothing, accessories and even 1940s furniture.

Organiser Sharon Taylor from Always Red Events, of Burntwood, said: "The festivities went really well. People came dressed in 1940s clothes and there was a great atmosphere."

Uplifting

There was live entertainment from the Polka Dot Dolls and children from Ridgeway Primary School in Chasetown wore traditional evacuee clothing and sang uplifting wartime songs. Former Land Girls from the region attended and relived their past. In the evening, there was a 1940s party, with a Winston Churchill lookalike, another Polka Dot Dolls performance and a buffet. The Staffordshire Women's Food and Farming Union want to honour the Land Girls and Lumber Gills, who played a major role in keeping British farming and forestry going throughout the two world wars. They need to raise £100,000 to commission a sculpture, and the total is already up to £38,000.

To make a donation, send a cheque made payable to Women's Land Army Tribute, Staffordshire WFU, to Amerton Farm & Craft Centre, Stowe-by-Chartley, Stafford ST18 0LA.

Garden Bird Rescue in her own home three years ago.
Since then she has cared for hundreds of birds, hedgehogs and squirrels, nursing them back to health and releasing them into the wild.

She said: "I enjoyed every moment at The British Wildlife Rescue Centre. It's great to see sick or injured animals returned to the wild in a healthy state after rescue.
"After seven years at the centre, I decided to set up my own rescue centre at home. I now have a heated shed and rehabilitation area as well as heat pads for baby hedgehogs and sick animals.

Rewarding

"But after working from home for a while, I found I was getting a little over-crowded and now I have 14 volunteers who also work from home to look after the animals.

Childhood memories as carnival is revived revived after more than 25 years. Brereton Carnival is being held on Saturday, July

An appeal to resurrect the event, which ran from 1977 until 1986, was launched last July by the Brereton & Ravenhill Association for Community Events (Brace).

Organisers have been recalling their memories of what the carnival was like.

Brace secretary Ruth Templeton said she could remember her father attending committee meetings to organise the big event, which was attended by thousands of people dressed in flamboyant costumes.

She said: "When carnival day arrived, we would all walk out into the street to find an impressive structure, surrounded by all the local dads who

PRINCE William is said to be taking tips on raising children from a former commando who has written a book about his own experiences.

Staffordshire man Neil Sinclair penned his military-style survival guide for fathers - Commando Dad Basic Training - after ditching the drills to become a full time dad. He has been told the Prince is a big fan of his work by royal correspondent Katie Nicholl, and is reading his book ahead of the birth of the first royal heir.

"I got a phone call from the royal cor-respondent who said 'do you realise you have a royal fan? The Prince of Wales has your book and he absolutely loves it."

It is a delirious and delightful combination of memorable toe-tapping 60s-style songs, demented dance moves plus some of the most outrageous hair-dos (and don'ts) you ever will see. It comes with a big dollop of humour, warm-hearted racial harmony message, vibrant sets and energetic cast.

There is excellent support from X Factor's Marcus Collins as slick Seaweed J Stubbs, Lauren Hood as the shrill Penny Pingleton and Sandra Marvin's soul diva Motormouth Maybelle. But the highlight for me remains the classic Timeless To Me song and routine featuring Edna and her pint-sized husband Wilbur, played with impish humour by Paul Rider. If you need a smile put on your face, go see Hairspray before it ends on Saturday.

Entertaining play performed by an outstanding cast

The Mousetrap, Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton WHEN the queen of crime, Agatha Christie, saw The Mousetrap open in London's West End back in 1952, I wonderwhether she herself thought it had the potential to run continuously for the next 60 years. It certainly isn't the very best example of her work – other murder mysteries are equally as gripping – and yet there is still something very special about the way it has held audiences in the palm of its hand for over six decades.

In true Christie style, a group of quirky characters are assembled, this time at a small country guest house. After hearing of a murder, they become increasingly uneasy in the company of one another as their suspicions are aroused.

The performance style is exaggerated and over the top, but works perfectly as the script is humorous and very 'English.' It isn't taxing on the brain and the storyline glides along at just the right pace. The set is excellent and so visually authentic.

Steven France as Christopher Wren brings just the right amount of humor to the piece and there is a wonderfully droll performance from Karl Howman as Mr Paravicini.

The reveal is by no means easy to predict, but the chances are you will forget the conclusion anyway before long.

The Mousetrap is just a thoroughly enjoyable and entertaining play, in this case performed by an outstanding cast. It Runs until Saturday.

Folk singer shows his story-telling penchant reached the age where grumpiness is sonigatory, cyricism is acceptable – as long as it's healthy – and yet has still managed to keep a touch of the endearing naughty schoolboy about his persona.

He is also one of those old folk tradition troubadours where the lyrics reign supreme.

The Kentish lad was flanked on the double bass by Neil Harland and keyboard player Justin Mitchell as they opened with John Barleycorn. Refreshingly he moved on to Caesar, a political song, something sadly lacking on the folk circuit at the moment.

The title track of his album None the Wiser lets his cynicism out for while. Wood went on to perform on of his staple songs Jerusalem, moving on to a more traditional sounding folk song in Let Me In.

He pulled one of Martin Simpson's out of the bag with Come Down Jehovah before Sofia, a love story from the Crusades, showed his penchant for story-telling.

Nothing funny about the prices at comedy festival

Comedy Hullabaloo, Stratford-upon-Avon THIS new festival saw 35 comics in 25 stand-up

THIS new festival saw 35 comics in 25 stand-up shows over four days.

There were several big names among the rising stars but a sprinkling of empty seats suggests it still needs to become an established part of the festival calendar. Or maybe an average price of around £20 for typically four comics each doing 20 minutes was considered too pricey even for affluent Stratford.

There were few empty seats at The Courtyard as Sandi Toksvig held court with her delightful, witty Valentine show. Elsewhere, long-haired Seann Walsh impressed and Carl Donnelly was current. Mark Watson's nervy, self-analytical display reminded me of Woody Allen.

Flats scheme likely to be given consent

PLANS to convert a house in Norton Canes into two flats were likely to be given the go-ahead this week despite neighbours raising objections.

The proposals involve a semi-detached property in School Road that will be turned into a pair of one-bedroom flats. Officers at Cannock Chase Council were recommending approval of the scheme ahead of a planning meeting yesterday (Wednesday).

PCSO Turnock continued to serve in his role after being injured in a road traffic collision when on bicycle patrol in August 2012. He thanked councillors after being presented with a framed certificate.

A report to councillors read: "PCSO Turnock had shown great investigative skill following his posting to the area and his skill and commitment had been noticed.

"The council was very pleased that PC Turnock had managed to return to work after his on-duty injuries and wished him well for his continued recovery.

"For his work in the area and his commitment to his role, the award for Citizen of the Year was presented to PCSO Andrew Turnock."

Free parking bid to benefit town

FREE parking could be introduced after 3pm on all council-run car parks in Cannock Chase to boost late day trade.

Calls were made to revise charges on weekdays at a meeting of Cannock Chase Council, and chiefs pledged to look into the feasibility of the idea.

Councillor Danny Davies, leader of Cannock Chase's leader of Cannock Chase's Liberal Democrat group, said: "In the light of more shop closures, would the cabinet now consider making free car parking on all the council owned car parks from 3pm on week-days?

"There are concerns the proposal could change the pattern of shopping habits rather than increasing footfall," he said.

"But I will look into the suggestion of free parking after 3pm," he added.

Nicholas Farrell

Spying on Hitler's Army: The Secret Recordings Channel 4. 8pm

Nicholas Farrell heads the cast of this powerful docudrama which turns the spotlight on one of the Second World War's final secrets: a daring British intelligence operation to eavesdrop on the private conversations of 10,000 German PoWs without them knowing. With many dramatisations there's a feeling of dramatic licence being employed with the script. However, the original transcripts are dramatised word for word. British intelligence used three stately homes for this major operation, and converted each into a clever trap.

Pick of the Week

Will the Jennings' hidden secret be uncovered?

lizabeth and Philip. Mention those two names, and probably the people that come to mind are our present Queen and her consort, the Duke of Edinburgh.

of Edinburgh.
Whether Joe Weisberg, former CIA member and the creator of The Americans, had them in mind when he came up with the characters featured here remains a mystery; they certainly don't have much in common with those denizens of the House of Windsor.

Instead of focusing on their marriage, it tells the story of two KGB agents who are posing as ordinary Americans in suburban Washington DC.

For those of us not around at the time, it's difficult to imagine just how paranoid the world was during the Cold War. However, this fascinating new drama should provide viewers with an education into the last few years of the situation.

Set just after the start of Ronald Reagan's term as US President in 1981, it begins by making it clear that despite having entered into a marriage of convenience, Philip and Elizabeth have developed real feelings together.

The pair have become genuinely close and now have a passionate relationship, as well as two children – 13-year-old Paige and Henry, 10 – who have no idea of their parents' true identity.

Philip is played by Matthew Rhys, whose previous most high-profile roles have come as Kevin Walker in the US series Brothers and Sisters, and the ITV drama The Scapegoat.

Scapegoat.

1 think where you find Philip in the first episode is: he's come to a point in his life where he is no longer defined by his job,'s says Rhys. 'The priority now in his life is his children. He's realised that his and Elizabeth's job has a shelf life and that the vice is slowly tightening and it's something they can't sustain.

1 think his real prohibition in life is.

"I think his real ambition in life is to secure the future for his children and for him and Elizabeth, really. His super-objective is to make sure that they're all safe – and the only real way to do that is to get out."

Philip thinks the perfect opportunity to do just that takes place in the first episode after he and his wife are ordered to kidnal Timoshev, a big shot at the KGB who recently defected to the US.

But the mission goes horribly wrong, and they're left with a hostage they can't seem to get rid of.

Philip thinks they should hand Timoshev back and defect themselves, but Elizabeth is themselves, but Elizabeth is horrified – she's still loyal to Mother Russia. But this division in their marriage is soon forgotten when an FBI agent moves in next door, and it's clear he's suspicious of his new neighbours...

Whether The Americans becomes ITV's answer to Channel 4's Homeland remains to be seen, but it certainly has potential.

but it certainly has potential.
It's also unusual for the broadcaster to show a US import, especially on a Saturday night – fingers crossed it works out well, because we're intrigued to see how this Elizabeth and Philip's story

Best of the Rest

MONDAY

ITV, 9pm Ian McKelle an McKellen and Derek Jacobi have spent so ong in the business, there's little wonder they nandle what is essentially a glorified stage play with the skill of a couple of seasoned gold. It doesn't hurt that fellow showbiz vetera Frances de la Tour is also on board. After all, she was making millions of us giggle back in the days when co-star Iwan (Misfits) Rheon was a twinkle in his parents' eyes. This week, Freddie and Stuart invite Ash and new girlfriend Chloe to dinner. However, her annoying nabits soon wind the camp thespians up. Meanwhile, Violet is having problems with her

Argentinian lover. TUESDAY Body of Proof

Channel 5, 10pm
Hollywood loves a killer virus story, with projects such as Outbreak, 24 and Contagion creating edge-of-the-seat tension. As last week's chilling story reaches its conclusion, a lethal virus is being spread around Philadelphia, so the team race against the clock to find a cure before it's too late. Peter Morgan's girlfriend Dani and scores of others have already been killed by the disease, and Kate, head of the medical examiners office, is also infected. Luckily she has stabilised onice, is also interced. Loudy she has stabilised and is now in quarantine. FBI Special Agent Brendan Johnson suggests one of the victims in be the terrorist who spread the disease, so the team search the city hospitals in the hope of finding him.

WEDNESDAY

ITV, 9pm

This new light-hearted drama in the Shirley Valentine mould stars Alison Steadman as Pauline Paradise. In episode one, she's retiring from work as a lollipop lady. It's a major event in her life, but the only person who notices or seems to care is Peter Bachman (Bruce Alexander), who gives her a present. Pauline feels put upon and taken for granted by her family, and the pressure builds when her dad, Frank (David Ryall), has an accident. Seeking comfort from Ken, he cruelly dismisses her, which is the final straw for Pauline, who decides to make a fresh start.

THURSDAY

Channel 5, 9pm Back in the late 1970s, Robin

Cook's novel Coma was turned into a hit-and-miss thriller with Michael Douglas and Genevieve Buiold, After more than 30 years, the subject matter (creepy goings on at a hospital) was ripe for a remake, and this large dose of adrenaling should pep up your night's viewing a treat. Lauren Ambrose plays medical student Susan Who who starts her first year of training at the Peach Tree

Memorial Hospital, built by her late grandfather. Because an unusually high proportion of operations are resulting in the patient falling into a coma, Susan suspects something is going wrong at the hospital, but her investigations are soon

BBC1, 9pm

We have a tendency to overuse certain phrases: for instance, someone, somewhere, will have been described as a "life-saver" today for something as simple as bringing a colleague a cup of tea. Which is all well and good, but where does it leave the people who genuinely do save lives on a day-to-day basis? This documentary captures the work of emergency medical crews at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, as cameras follow patients from the roadside to treatment and recovery. In the first episode, a head-on collision traps a family of three in one car and a single driver in the other. Thanks to consultant Rod Mackenzie and his colleagues, things could have been a lot worse. Now that's a

FRIDAY

BBC1, 7pm It's the first live round, which means Jessie J will answer everything like it's a question, before hugging every member of her acts that don't make nugging every member of ner acts that don't make it through to the next stage, Will.iam will be resisting the urge to Tweet his fans with thoughts on the show or his own unique world view, while Danny O'Donoghue jumps around in his seat like a child who's had too much orange juice. As ever, the effortlessly cool Tom Jones will be lending his emortiessly cool i one Jones will be lending his expert opinion to the proceedings. Holly Willoughby and Reggie Yates will guide us through the musical mayhem as the dozen remaining acts perform for a place in next week's semi-final. You at home vote on who goes through, and the results can be seen at 9.30pm.

Channel 4's Comedy Gala Channel 4, 9pm Gosh! This should be a night to remember as a Goshi mis should be a night to enteriner as a higher host of famous faces team up to raise a giggle in aid of Great Ormond Street Hospital. Michael McIntyre, Jack Dee, Jo Brand, Jonathan Ross, Adam Hills, Russell Brand, Kevin Bridges, Lee Evans and Josh Widdicombe have all descended on London's O2 for a mix of stand-up comedy and specially written sketches. And if that lot aren't enough to make you tune in, how about Paddy McGuinness, Rhod Gilbert, Seann Walsh, Tom Stade, Nina Conti, Paul Chowdhry and Jon Richardson? Plus, Alan Carr, Miranda Hart and Warwick Davis team up with Diversity to showcase their own style of nifty footwork

READERS of a certain age will remember how we once broke into a tin of sardines for supper; by rolling the thin metal lid off with a

You had to guard against either cutting yourself on the edges of the lid as it rolled itself into a cylinder, or be prepared for spillage and smelling like a fish counter for the rest of the evening.

Counter for the rest of the I'm not suggesting the latest version of Citroen's chic DS3 owes anything to an oily sardine, except that when you let the sunshine in, the new Cabrio unwinds its fabric roof in something approaching an unconscious tribute to the humble toast topper.

The push of an overhead button furls the roof (and pulls it back up) in 16 seconds and at speeds up to 75mph, so a sudden English summer shower needs hold no terrors of damp seats and ruined hair.

Speeds

Better still, even with the roof folded right back, the heater was able to keep out the chill of a spring morning, with snow on the ground, so long as you kept speeds down to a town-like pace. Which is what, I'd guess, most DS3 Cabrios will be most DS3 Cabrios will be doing for most of their life. The range, which stretches from £15,045 to the £19,675 of the test car, is likely to be bought mostly by urban ladies who also looked at the MINI Convertible or Fiat 500C before heading for France France.

What an owner of the DS3 and Fiat soft-tops share is a car that's not really a full convertible, which takes all the roof away when you want the sun on max. Both cars leave the roof sides intact when the roof vanishes; good for keeping rattles at bay but giving more the feel of a giant sunroof than the real thing. Pleasant enough though to imagine lots of people going for this version of a car that's already Citroen's biggest seller in Britain.

At launch there are three versions of the Cabrio, adding a substantial £2,345 for the privilege of the folding roof (Fiat charges more £3,000, precisely - to remove the roof from its 500). Most popular is expected to be the midrange DStyle with 120 horsepower and a £17,425 price tag.

An automatic version of this model £(18,525) should now be available and might be on ideal cuttelless.

this model (£18,525) should now be available and might be an ideal, clutchless, intown companion.
Keeping some of the metal roof in place means less need for extra strengthening in a cabrio version, meaning only a modest 25kg weight penalty over the tin-top DS3, when rivals find themselves adding four times that selves adding four times that to keep things nice and rigid.

Versatile and value for money like the idea of 4x4s because we frequently get stuck crossing fields?

Or is it because they look a bit tougher, give a more commanding view of the road and are a bit more interesting than a standard hatchback?

You can answer that one for yourself but the reality for many people is that four-wheel drive is like a diver's watch; useful and practical but rarely extended to the limit of its useful and practical but rare abilities.

But they are hugely popular, which explains why Volvo has introduced a Cross Country version of its V40 hatchback.

There's a little clarification required here too; XC in Volvo-speak means SUV, such as the XC60 and XC90. But this isn't an XC, it's a such as the XC60 and XC90. But this isn't an XC, it's a Cross Country, so the majority of the range is only available in two-wheel drive.

That might sound like an odd decision, but the prospective V40 Cross Country customer will be more interested to hear

Country customer will be more interested to hear about how it has improved cabin storage compared to the standard car, right down to a slot for the ice scraper with a drainage channel in the front door pockets.

Storage

In fact the V40 is packed

In fact, the V40 is packed with this sort of thing, with the option of a folding front passenger seat, a storage pack for the boot with rails and dividers, and a clever false boot floor that can be flipped, removed or folded together. The most obvious changes are outside however, where the Cross changes are outside however, where the Cross Country wears all the trappings of an off-road machine.

There are chunkier bumpers, substantial scuff plates, smart roof rails fin-ished in silver and a choice of alloy wheels including handsome 19-inchers.

handsome 19-inchers.

The Cross Country also comes in a unique colour dubbed Raw Copper.

Add to that the ride height raised by 40mm and arguably you have a car that makes the standard V40 look a little plain – unless you go for the R-Design version, of course – which is no coincidence.

version, of course – which is no coincidence. Unlike the rest of the range, the top T5 model comes with four-wheel drive as standard, and all the better for it; the T5 designation means there is a tur-bocharged five-cylinder engine under the bonnet pumping out 254 horse-power and 295lb.ft of torque.

Taken to the wheels through a six-speed auto-matic transmission, the Cross Country T5 has the numbers to make it some-numbers to make it some-thing of a performance car; 0-62mph in under seven seconds and the top speed is only a fraction short of 150mph.

And the four-wheel drive system is clever and highly effective; some time spent driving the Cross Country on a frozen lake in Sweden revealed that it is secure and reasuring with Volvo's revealed that it is secure and reassuring with Volvo's DTSC system switched on, and surprisingly playful and fun with it turned off. The modest flurries of snow and cold weather in the UK wouldn't trouble it in the wouldn't trouble it in the slightest.

The seats are superb, the driving position is excellent and, of course, a fraction higher thanks to the increase in ride height, and the dashboard is visually attractive and easy to use. The standard V40 is far from impractical but the added features on the Cross Country version are still welcome.

It sounds much too like It sounds much too like an advertising slogan but it gives a strong impression of being equipped for life, with plenty of thought given to the layout and how it can best suit a multitude of users and situations.

In fact, there are only two quibbles with the V40 Cross Country. Firstly the price.

Country. Firstly the price, with this T5 version check-with this To version check-ing in at almost £34,000.

The second is the four-wheel drive; go for a cheaper version with a more eco-nomical diesel and you lose the traction of two driven

Korando SE offers luxury motoring at a great price

Korando has a 5-year warranty

SSANGYong is adding a new low priced crossover model to its Korando range – the crossover model to its Korando range – the Korando SE.

"With a new and extremely affordable purchase price, a highly competitive PCP scheme on all models and a market leading 5 year limitless mileage warranty, there has never been a better time to purchase a Korando," said Paul Williams, CEO of Ssanglong Motor UK.
Styled by Italian car designer Giorgetto Giugiaro of Ital Design, this new model in the Korando line-up is powered by an advanced and robust 2.0 litre four cylinder turbo diesel engine producing 360Nm of torque with CO2 emissions of 147g/km and developing maximum power of 149ps@4,000rpm, while also providing a full two tonne towing capability.

Expensive

Expensive

The SE features a level of equipment you would normally expect from much more expensive cars, including Electronic stability programme (ESP) with Hill Start Assist, Active Rollover Protection (ARP) and ABS with Electronic Brakeforce Distribution (EBD). It also comes with a number of luxury touches including roof rails, tinted glass and rear parking sensors, while inside there are electric windows front and rear, a leather covered steering wheel and gear shift, air conditioning, cruise control and a Kenwood MP3 CD & RDS radio with iPod & Bluetooth, remote audio controls and six speakers. "In the current economy, customers tell us they want an affordable car, a competitive purchase plan and the an affordable car, a competitive purchase plan and the peace of mind of a long and 'quibble free' warranty - that's exactly what the new Korando delivers," says that's exactly what the new Korando delivers," says Steve Gray, marketing and communications director of SsangYong.

"The result is a car that is not only fantastic value at just £14,995, but also comes with a level of standard equipment many of the so called 'value brands' don't even have on their options list!

"SsangYong has an enviable reputation for building extremely well engineered vehicles, and this Korando is an honest, reliable and highly capable car."

The new SsangYong Korando SE is just £14.995

world's economies and its population's growing disposable income, that British and European car makers are looking east.
Citroen has more than 20 years' presence in the country and two years ago chose the Shanghai Motor Show for the world premiere of DS5.
It seems the Chinese like the striking quirky styling of the brand and its big saloon is as striking as they come for buyers from the east and the west.
In the UK the French firm says the DS5 is aiming firmly at the business sector. The hybrid diesel electric engine offers excellent economy and low CO2 emissions to make it even low CO2 emissions to make it even low CO2 emissions to make it even more attractive as a company car.

It has a combined power output of 200bhp and four drive modes, battery only, auto, sport and four-wheel drive.

Most drivers would keep it in auto which switches to the correct combination of battery and diesel power. Claimed official economy is 72mpg which I got nowhere near, more likely

Economy

Even better news for business users is emissions of under 100g/km which makes it exempt from road fund licence and attracts the lowest rate of benefit in kind taxation of 10 per cent.

But its not just about the economy; the car is lavishly equipped for the money and has a combination of comfort and roominess. Styling features include prominent air-intakes, chrome grille with LED light signatures and chrome-finished details, such as the 'sabres' that run from the tips of the headlamps to the front windows.

The cabin's cockpit roof has pilot-style overhead switches, a large glass roof, divided into three areas with indi-vidual electrically operated sunblinds, allowing occupants to control the amount of light entering the cabin both day and night.

The test model also features white and black leather upholstery contrast-ing nicely with aluminium trim and surrounds.

Best Estate Car award for Kia cee'd Sportswagon

Diesel Car magazine has named the Kia cee'd Sportswagon Best Estate Car in its annual Car of the Year issue – the first award won by Car of the Year issue – the first award won by Kia's C-segment car.

Beating off strong opposition from the Mazda 6 Tourer and Jaguar XF Sportbrake to win the overall title, Diesel Car magazine's editor, Ian Robertson said: "The cee'd Sportswagon combines well-designed practicality and excellent driving calibre in an attractive package."

Kia had a strong showing in the Diesel Car magazine awards, with the Sorento highly commended in the mainstream 4x4 class, whilst the Rio was also commended in the mainstream small car class. Celebrating their 25th anniversary in the business this year, Diesel Car is the UK's top selling diesel, alternative fuel and eco-friendly car specialist monthly magazine.

Premium

Paul Philpott, president and CEO, Kia Motors UK Limited said: "We are delighted that Diesel Car has awarded the cee'd Sportswagon best estate car for 2013. It's unrivalled combination of space, functionality and engine performance, wrapped up in a premium design and backed up with our seven-year warranty gave us great confidence that we had a best-in-class product. Thankfully Diesel Car agree!"

Carrera gets turbo and a top speed of 197mph

The new 911 Carrera S which has been given a turbo boost to hit 0 to 62mph in just 3.1 seconds

AS if the 911 Carrera S wasn't fast enough, Porsche has announced details of the Turbo and Turbo S models, ahead of first deliveries in the UK later this year.

As with previous iterations the 911 Turbo has four-wheel drive as standard, although the design is new for this 991-series car and includes active rear steering also destined for the 911 GT3.

Turbo

Porsche Dynamic Chassis Control (PDCC) active anti-roll system is offered for the first time on the 911 Turbo models, and comes as standard on the 911 Turbo S, together with the Sport Chrono Package Plus incorporating dynamic engine mounts, and Porsche Ceramic Composite Brakes (PCCB). These are also available as an option on the 911 (PCCB). These are also available as an option on the 911 Turbo.

Both the Turbo and Turbo S are powered by a 3.8-litre flat six, with twin turbochargers and direct injection to produce 512bhp in the Turbo and a staggering 552bhp in the Turbo S.

Mated to the seven-speed dual clutch PDK gearbox as standard, both the Turbo and Turbo S also have stop/start fitted, which helps both models claim an impressive 29.1mpg combined. Even more incredible are the performance figures.

Acceleration

Fitted with the optional Sport Chrono package, the Turbo can accelerate from 0 to 62 mph in 3.2 seconds, faster than the previous 911 Turbo S. Meanwhile, the new 911 Turbo S despatches the sprint to 62mph in just 3.1 seconds. The car's top speed is 197mph.

The new 911 Turbo models are available to order now from Porsche Centres in the UK and Ireland. The Turbo is priced from £118.349 and the Turbo S from £140,852.

The first right-hand drive deliveries will arrive in September 2013.

engine options – 1.4-litre 89bhp and 1.6-litre CRDi 126bhp, with prices starting from £16,895 on the road. Kia's fixed-priced and inflation proof "Care-3" and "Care-3 plus" servicing packages, which covers the first three or first five services for retail customers, are available for £329, or £609 accordingly. Brokenhearted Husband

We have a memory in our hearts that time can never touch, your loving care throughout the years when we were growing up.

Always ready to do your best with a heart so true and tender, you devoted your life to those you loved and those you loved remember.

Nan

You suffered so much, you told so few, you did not deserve what you went through.

Tired and weary you made no fuss but tried so hard to stay with us.

Your golden heart stopped beating and now it is at rest, God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best.

Love you lots, Kathryn Leanne, Emily and Harley.

Sister and Aunt

San, you have suffered for long enough, you were so brave, strong and tough.

A Sister, an Aunt, what more can we say, you were always there for us night or day.

Much love Chris, Deb, Karl Mark, Jane, Jake, Tom and Jay.

Passed away on Monday, May 20, 2013, aged 78 years.

Sadly missed by Family and Friends.

Her Funeral Service will take place at Stafford Crematorium on Friday, May 31, at 1.30pm.

Family flowers only please

in memoriam

ROBINS Elsie May

Five years, May 29.

As long as our hearts have memories Mum, as long as our eyes have tears, we will treasure the times we shared with you, those were our precious years.

May the winds of love blow softly and whisper in your ears, how much we love and miss you, with every passing year.

Your life was a blessing, your memory a treasure, you are loved beyond words and missed beyond measure.

All our love Philip and Glen, Patricia and Colin, Ian and

NDON THEAT BREAKS

Choose your show, price band* and how you want to travel

Coach inclusive breaks – Two days

Selected weekend departures Saturday Night from £129.95 Dine and Dance from £139.95

Take in a top West End show and have some free time in London for shopping and sightseeing. For the Dine and Dance option see the matinee performance before heading back to the hotel for dinner and disco (conditions apply). For the Saturday Night option you will see the evening performance. For both breaks the price includes a theatre ticket, overnight stay in a four-star outer London hotel, with full English breakfast (plus dinner for Dine and Dance options). Pick ups offered are Dudley, Shrewsbury, Telford, Walsall and Wolverhampton.

Rail inclusive breaks – Two or three days

Departures most weekends

Saturday Night Theatre from £139.95

Catch the Theatre Express and enjoy a super two-day weekend break in the capital. There's a choice of London hotels and your ticket is for a Saturday evening performance. Rail travel is standard class with the option to upgrade. Departs Saturday morning/early afternoon from Birmingham New Street, Shrewsbury, Stafford or Wolverhampton, returning on the Sunday afternoon/early evening to give plenty of free time for shopping and sightseeing

Theatre Showstopper from £189.95 Theatre Weekend from £189.95

These popular theatre packages to the West End depart from Birmingham New Street, Shrewsbury, Stafford or Wolverhampton on the Friday morning returning on the Sunday afternoon/early evening. Standard class travel is included with the option to upgrade. Two nights stay at a three or four-star London hotel of your choice (hotel supplements may apply) and a top priced ticket for a Friday evening performance for the Theatre Showstopper package or choose your price band for the Saturday evening performance with the Theatre Weekend package.

*The "from" price and price bands vary for each show – see brochure for details. Single room supplements apply.

Hawkins Sports cruised to a seven-wicket win at Aldridge.

The paceman rattled through the home side's top order, claiming 6-53 to set his team on course for a win which sent them 26 points clear at the top of the Staffs Clubs Premier Division.

Aldridge skipper Ross Shelton batted after winning the toss but was left to regret it as his side were bowled out for 121 with only Imran Jamshed (39) offering any resistance.

Delighted Hawkins captain Mubeen Rashid said: "Our bowlers did a great job on what was a flat wicket; Qamar was swinging it both ways from the start and we never gave them chance to settle.

Whirlwind final round gives Breeze the crown

WALSALL WOOD'S Daniel Breeze was crowned national amateur champion in the junior ABA competition after success in the finals at Mansfield Civic Centre.

But there was defeat for Breeze's Walsall Wood ABC clubmate, Joseph Stevenson, who lost a majority decision in his first national final against hard-hitting Yahia Chelli, from Dale Youth ABC, London. They met in the most senior of Classes – Six, for boxers born in 1995 – at 71kg on Sunday. Breeze was competing in Class Five – boxers born in 1996 – at 66kg and won his third national title in his second year in the competition after seeing off Eunnis Chaima.

An all-action final 60 seconds from the two-time ABA Schoolboys champion may have been the key factor. It was a frantic finish during a close fight with Chaima, of Finchley ABC, London. Breeze threw everything at him in the last minute and the sheer volume of punches may have been enough to sway the judges to give him a majority points win.

The sport is big in Europe with German league matches attract five-figure crowds.

But domestically it suffered a blow when funding for the game was cut after the 2012

With GB unlikely to make the 2016 Rio games, the sisters can still dream of 2020 in Istanbul, Madrid or Tokyo.
